Dear ACSF members,

The Architecture, Culture, and Spirituality Forum (ACSF) has established a new Award for Outstanding Achievement. The purpose of the ACSF Award is to recognize, celebrate, and raise public awareness of exceptional work in architecture, landscape architecture, art, design, urbanism, planning, and related fields.

Awardees will be selected for their seminal professional, educational, or scholarly contributions in these areas as they align with the primary mission of ACSF--to provide a forum for scholarship, research, education, practice, design, and advocacy regarding the cultural and spiritual significance of the built environment.

Nominations for the award are welcome from ACSF members. Nominees should be persons of stature, which might include (but not be limited to) architects, visual and performing artists, designers, urban planners, landscape architects, craftspeople, educators, authors, scientists, historians, theologians, anthropologists, philosophers, scholars, and clergy members. Awardees may be at any point in their careers and from any country. Excluded are self- and postmortem-nominations for the award.

Those making a nomination must provide:

- (1) A CV of the nominee
- (2) A brief (not more than 750-word) Statement of Nomination, outlining the relevant contributions of the nominee. The Statement of Nomination may include illustrations, but they are not required.
- (3) The name and contact information of three references (nominator and two more individuals).

The DEADLINE for nominations is February 1, 2018.

The members of ACSF Awards Committee are Michael J. Crosbie (Chair), Julio Bermudez, Hyejung Chang, Michelangelo Sabatino, and Caitlin Watson.

Please email your nominations (with subject line: "ACSF Award Nomination") to Michael J. Crosbie, Awards Committee Chair, at: mcrosbie@faithandform.com by February 1, 2018.
