Subject: RE: Space, Place and Religious Meaning Consultation

Peace, Everyone! Please read this announcement for prospective contributors to a new volume. Contact Prof. Brunn for further information. Please also contact me, if you would like your e-mail address removed from this list, or if someone you know would like to be added to it. Labor Day Peace, Leonard Primiano for the AAR Space, Place and Religious Meaning Consultation

Announcement for a book being edited by Professor Stanley D. Brunn, Department of Geography, University of Kentucky, Lexington, KY 40506-0027. Email: brunn@uky.edu

The Changing World Religion Map

Last fall I submitted a prospectus to Springer Publishers for the above book, which will explore cutting-edge research on a wide variety of religion topics. The book will be International in themes and authors, interdisciplinary and interfaith. Now that I have a contract I am ferreting out potential authors. There are several major themes, including globalization, new diasporas, gender, environment, secularization and religious practices (beliefs, pilgrimages, celebrations, etc.), and geopolitics and religion. One chapter in particular that I would like to include would be on the programs, networks, success and problems of Church World Service and Caritas, both major charity interdenominational organs.

The length would be 5000 words and the deadline April 2012. Photos, maps and graphs may be included in some chapters. For those who are interested, please contact me and include several ideas you might be interested in addressing. It is my hope that this volume will be used in classes on religion in public and private colleges and universities as well as seminaries.

Best regards,
Stan Brunn
